A New Proclamation:

March 2016

To all Irish citizens, newly arrived and those who live abroad,

Know that you should feel valued and that our country needs and respects you. Everyone deserves to be treated fairly and equally no matter where you are from, what religion you are, what age you are or whether you are male or female.

It is our duty as a country and as a community to ensure that our citizens feel safe and secure in their homes, towns and cities.

Your health is your responsibility but you have the right to equal medical treatment and a hospital bed if necessary, whether you are rich or poor.

Everyone should have a hot meal every day, a warm bed to sleep in and a safe home to live in. It is our responsibility to help the homeless to get these things too.

All religions should be respected and people should be allowed to practice their faith without prejudice.

We have a responsibility to look after our elderly and those who are less able, with friendship and services that they need.

Education is a right for all and all young people should be given the opportunity to reach their full potential and become active citizens, making Ireland a better place to live in. We can inspire and find hope in our young people....they will be our leaders of tomorrow.
